

Frank Fabiano, Jr., 16, Of Ulster Landing, Killed At Barrytown Saturday

Boy Apparently Killed on Delano Dock by Accidental Discharge From Own Shot Gun; Five Squirrels in Coat.

DEAD FOR HOURS

Body Found by Brother and Cousin Who Crossed Hudson to Search for Youth.

Frank Fabiano, Jr., 16 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Fabiano of Ulster Landing was accidentally shot Saturday by his own gun as he was getting in his boat to return home from hunting in Dutchess county. The body was not discovered for several hours and then only after his brother, Michael Fabiano, and his cousin, Frank Gallo, had gone in search of him when he failed to return home. The body was found on the Delano dock about a mile below the Barrytown railroad station. When discovered young Fabiano had apparently been dead for several hours.

Early Saturday morning he left home for a hunting trip across the river. He rowed to the Dutchess county shore and had apparently been hunting and had returned to his boat to return home when the gun was accidentally discharged as he was about to get into his boat. In his hunting coat were found five gray squirrels indicating that the shooting had taken place as he was entering the boat and not as he landed and prepared to leave the boat.

Body Is Found

When he failed to return home shortly after noon his brother and cousin went across the river in search of him and were horrified when they came on his body at Delano's dock. They ascertained he was dead and then leaving their own boat entered the boat which he had used and rowed to the Ulster county shore carrying the gun with them. The Dutchess county authorities on learning of the shooting began an investigation and for a time were at a loss to know how the shooting took place, since there was no gun at the scene when they arrived. This was later cleared up by Troopers Bell and Meier who on being notified of the shooting went to Dutchess county to aid in the investigation. They learned that in their haste the two young men who had found the body had rowed back to Ulster county in the boat which Frank had taken, leaving their own boat at the scene. In the gun was one empty shell.

Accident Reconstructed

The Dutchess county sheriff's office was called and the Troopers there also investigated and reconstructed the accident. It apparently happened while Fabiano was entering his boat for the return home. Apparently he had placed his gun in the boat, barrel up, and was about to step into the boat from the dock when the gun went off. The charge struck him in the right breast and shoulder and he was thrown back on the dock where the body was found.

Beside his parents, Frank is survived by four brothers, James, Louis, Michael and Peter, and four sisters, Mrs. Sophia Hanco, Mrs. Anna Esamaro, Pauline and Mary. Funeral services will be held from the late home at 10:30 o'clock Tuesday and from St. Columba's Church, East Kingston, at 11 o'clock where a requiem Mass will be offered. Burial will be in St. Mary's cemetery.

It has been reported to the sheriff that about 11:30 o'clock Friday morning Mrs. N. B. Davis of 201 Otsego street, Ilion, stopped to eat a lunch along route 3-W two miles below Saugerties near the Mar-Mac filling station. After eating she continued her trip and later discovered that she had left behind a zipper bag containing ladies wearing apparel and an old fashioned portrait together with a letter addressed to Dr. Louis Jones. The bag was black. Anyone finding the bag is requested to return it to her or to the sheriff's office.

Heiselman's Record

A Series of Editorial Studies of What Mayor Heiselman Has Accomplished in the Past Two Years and Plans for the Future.

No. 15
CWA and ERB

It was in 1933 as the administration of Mayor Carey was drawing to a close that the Civil Works Administration, better known as the CWA, came into existence, and Mr. Carey got in touch with Mayor-elect Walker and asked him to nominate men to serve on the local CWA. This was done and Mayor Carey approved the list of men suggested and forwarded the proposed committee to the state CWA, which approved the naming of the committee as it was constituted. The CWA continued to function until May, 1933, when it was replaced by the present Emergency Relief Bureau, which controls not only all work relief projects, but also home relief. The members of the ERB are the same men who formed the local CWA, and for the past two years have unselfishly devoted many hours of their time and their ability, without one cent of compensation, to make Kingston a better place to live in, and to take up projects that met not only the approval of the state and federal officials but the residents of Kingston.

This committee has wholeheartedly cooperated with Mayor Heiselman in approving projects of the most benefit to the entire city; projects that would make the men employed on them feel proud of their work.

By this cooperation between the committee and the mayor many worthwhile projects have been completed, including the extension of sewer service in streets that had never had a sewer system; in the building of a city incinerator, the construction of a modern city laboratory, the remodeling of the old army into the present fine Municipal Auditorium, and the rebuilding of many streets.

Both the mayor's hands and the hands of the ERB have been bound by the red tape at Albany and Washington, but in spite of the hampering effect of rules and regulations imposed in the spending of the federal and state funds, the work accomplished by the men of Kingston on work relief projects the past two years has met the hearty commendation of the officials of the state and federal government.

Not a penny of relief funds has been wasted in Kingston, and every cent has been utilized to afford the most work for the greatest number of men, and at the same time giving the city projects which were greatly needed, and which will prove of untold value not only now but in future years.

Legion Will Stage Big Halloween Parade Here

Thursday evening, Halloween, at 7:30 o'clock the big Halloween Parade by the American Legion will be staged in this city. The parade headed by the Legion Drum Corps and assisted by the Port Ewen Drum Corps will march up Broadway from the Strand and Ferry street to the uptown section and then return to the Municipal Auditorium, where a free dance will be held.

Playing the most important part in the line of march will be children who will fall in line all along the route and that they will have one glorious time in parading through the streets is freely predicted.

At the Auditorium music will be furnished by the TERA orchestra and everything will be free. One merry time will be had by all present as the Legion has a program to attract the youth of the city for a real good treat.

Variety of Cases In Police Court

Patrick McGlynn, 53, the "Gillie blacksmith" from Staten Island, who comes to Kingston every fall when the racing season finishes and generally falls into the tolls of the law, got six months in jail from City Judge Bernard A. Culliton this morning.

"Mac" was arrested Saturday afternoon for public intoxication. He got drunk to celebrate a suspended sentence given him in the morning by Judge Culliton, who warned him to leave Kingston. He promised to do so, but imbibed too freely before taking off and was picked up by Patrolmen Joseph Fallon and Ernest Boss.

This morning when he faced the bar of justice he had the six months' sentence placed on him. He probably didn't mind either for he's safe and sound now for the winter at 1818 Wall street and will be ready to go on the road again in the spring when the racing season gets under way.

Liza Rickelson of 124 North Front street, who is one of the most frequent visitors to the county jail, was sent up for 10 days this morning on a charge of disorderly conduct. Liza was arrested Saturday afternoon by Patrolman William Leonard Simpson. At Baxter, 41 Yocum street, paid a $5 fine for public intoxication. He was arrested Sunday night.

Lester Smith, 27, of Newburgh, arrested Friday by Patrolman Joseph Fallon and John Harman for reckless driving and passing a red light, was fined $10 on the former charge and was let go on the second because in Newburgh a right turn is allowed on a light.

Orville Pallen of Millers Lane arrested Sunday for a violation of the traffic law was fined $2.

Harrison Wolcott of 116 Hooker street, arrested by Patrolman John J. Harman for three violations of the traffic law—driving without a tail light and without a certificate of registration and operator's license—had his hearing adjourned to Tuesday.

Mike Dean, 59, of 25 East 14th street, arrested by Patrolman Peter Kerevman Sunday on Greenkill avenue near Clinton because he cut a traffic standard and his hearing adjourned to Tuesday.

Edward Knapport, 24, of Brookline, arrested Saturday by Patrolman Edward J. Leonard on Fair street for a traffic violation—cut $5 bail for a hearing Thursday.

South Carolina's Chief Executive Declares a State of Insurrection

National Guard Machine Gunners Ordered to Keep Commissioners Out of Offices in State Highway Department.

BOARD IS NAMED

Governor Olin Johnston Names Supervisors to Carry Out Ballot Box Will of People.

Columbia, S. C., Oct. 28 (AP)—Gov. Olin D. Johnston seized control of the South Carolina Highway Department with the backing of machine guns today as long smoldering differences between the executive and the 14 commissioners broke into the open.

In a series of swift moves, Governor Johnston declared the highway administration in "a state of insurrection," planted a battery of machine gun-armed National Guardsmen around the highway offices, appointed a "board of managers" to handle road matters and suspended the right of habeas corpus.

The climactic action came after the commissioners, headed by Ben M. Sawyer, chairman, refused to declare a holiday on sale of automobile and light truck licenses until a flat rate of $3, and after the commissioners refused to relinquish disputed seats on the board.

Joe Calus, Spartanburg accountant, made chairman of the new board of managers. Immediately ordered the entire state highway patrol to "turn in your side arms" because "there will be no patrol on the highway today, tomorrow or the day after that."

He summoned the several hundred department employees, fired them in a group and re-hired them, with instructions to submit resignations effective November 15. He explained many of them likely will be re-employed.

The governor's proclamation declared the board was in a state of "rebellion and insurrection."

Reduction of the license cost to $3 flat rate was part of the governor's platform prior to election last year, and he has been at odds with the group since taking office in January.

Johnston vetoed the appropriation for Sawyer's salary, and often denounced the commissioner, promising to "throw him out of office" for allegedly using the department for political purposes.

Last week Governor Johnston demanded that the board stop sales of 1936 licenses at old rates until the $3 tags could be voted, but was refused on the ground the law provided for 1936 tags on and after November 1.

Second Accident At Kerhonkson End Of Minnewaska Trail

The second accident caused by a runaway truck on the hill leading from the Minnewaska Trail through Kerhonkson village happened Saturday morning last about 8 o'clock when a Ford truck enroute from New Jersey with Ford parts and accessories went out of control on the steep hill, dashed down the street and ran up on the sidewalks at nearly the same place where about a year ago a huge truck loaded with lumber met its fate. At that time the lumber truck crashed into the Brown drug store, doing much damage. The truck Saturday, however, confined its damage to a Chevrolet car which stood in front of the Victory Store, next to the drug store.

Mrs. McGaullin, wife of the manager of the Victory Store, had just alighted from her car, which she had parked in front, when the Ford truck came rumbling down the steep hill, jumped the curb and turned over against the Chevrolet wrecking it. Had the impact come a moment before Mrs. McGaullin probably would have been badly injured.

At the point where the Minnewaska Trail enters the village street is a very steep hill. Many trucks in coming down the hill experience brake trouble. It was stated that the Ford brakes burned out while coming down the hill and the driver was unable to control his car. Fortunately no one was on the sidewalk in the immediate vicinity at the time.

The driver of the truck escaped with a cash over his eye. Sergeant Hopkins and Trooper Reynolds made an investigation.

No Schultz Money

Boston, Oct. 28 (AP)—Gamblers looking for any "Dutch Schultz" money in Boston, according to U. S. Attorney Francis J. W. Ford, Schultz, New York racketeer recently slain in Newark, N. J., was reported in New York as having placed $1,000,000 in a Boston bank for a girl known only as "Ann," supposedly his third wife. "We are not looking for any 'Dutch Schultz' money in Boston," Ford told the Associated Press. "and personally, I do not place too much faith in the report that he put any money in a Boston bank."

"Brain Trusters" Less Noticeable Among the White House Callers

Washington, Oct. 28 (AP)—What has become of the "brain trusters?" Their calls at the White House are not so frequent as in the early days of the New Deal. Some of the professors have gone back to their colleges. A few of the planners have graduated to administrative positions. New faces, among them those of men with political and business experience, have appeared in the ranks of presidential confidants.

The latch string of the executive mansion still hangs within easy reach of Dr. Felix Frankfurter, Raymond Moley and Rexford Guy Tugwell, three of those most often labeled "brain trusters." But the president sees more of Joseph P. Kennedy, successful Wall Streetier who headed the securities exchange commission for a time; of Harry L. Hopkins, Frank Walker and Secretary Ickes, the "big three" of his works program; and—in season—of his congressional leaders.

Among the original "brain trusters" who have stepped into important administrative posts, James M. Landis, 36-year-old chairman of the securities commission, is outstanding. He came to Washington as a protégé of Dr. Frankfurter, professor of law at Harvard, to help write New Deal legislation.

President Roosevelt's "breathing spell" has brought a new type of work for two other young lawyers—Ben Cohen and Tom Corcoran, who helped frame the holding company bill at the last session of congress. They have been appointed special assistants to the attorney general to assist in defending that measure against court attacks.

Although Rexford Tugwell's resettlement administration has not been granted as much of the $4,880,000 work relief fund as many of its officials anticipated, there are many indications that he still is well liked by the president.

A little has been heard in Washington recently of Professors James Harvey Rogers of Yale and George F. Warren of Cornell, who were special work for two other young lawyers—Ben Cohen and Tom Corcoran, who helped frame the holding company bill at the last session of congress. They have been appointed special assistants to the attorney general to assist in defending that measure against court attacks.

Of the members of an "economic advisory council" which functioned during Mr. Roosevelt's campaign for the presidency, Basil D. O'Connor, the president's former law partner, went back to his business after the election.

Judge Samuel I. Haysman of New York likewise returned to his own affairs. Raymond Moley, who had been professor of public law at Columbia, became assistant secretary of state but resigned after differences with Secretary Hull and now edits the magazine "Today."

A. A. Berle, Jr., worked for a time as special counsel for the RFP and still does occasional legal jobs for it. Charles William Joseph, business man, is now chairman of the national youth administration. Robert Strain, an official in the resettlement administration, and Hugh S. Johnson, in beginning a second term as a friendly critic of the New Deal.

League Officials See U.S. Attitude Decided Move Toward End of the War

Japanese Spokesman Says His Nation Has Refrained From Granting Licenses for Shipment of Arms to Belligerents.

LONDON GLOOMY

Neither Great Britain nor France Sees Immediate Solution of Italo-Ethiopian Conflict.

Geneva, Oct. 28 (AP)—Japan and Germany today gave League of Nations officials reason to believe they will pattern their policies after that of the United States with respect to league sanctions against Italy.

Both the Japanese and the German delegations eagerly inquired after the text of the note from Washington, responding to the league's notification of its judgment against Italy.

League officials believe the American reply distinctly encouraging to its efforts to hasten the end of the war. They also believe Japan and Germany will do nothing to wreck the league sanction machinery against Mussolini, which the American note described by implication as a machinery of peace.

No Licenses

An authoritative Japanese spokesman told the Associated Press Japan has refrained from granting any licenses for the shipment of armaments or war materials either to Ethiopia or Italy.

This policy, he added, will doubtless be continued without the formality of Japan proclaiming an arms embargo.

The league member states lined up swiftly today in favor of sanctions against Italy.

Great Britain and France set the pace as the league sent a message to its members throughout the world to give notice by today of the date when they believed they could apply an economic boycott against Italy.

The call was issued in preparation for a meeting on October 31 of the general sanctions staff of 52 nations to fix the date when the boycott will be imposed in the warring Fascist regime.

Although the nations were swinging into line more rapidly on the arms embargo sanctions than on the economic measures, Britain and France took the lead in accepting a "buy nothing from Italy" program and a ban on exports to Italy of certain key products—especially those needed in war.

Spain, Russia May Act

The participation of Russia and Spain in economic sanctions was expected to be announced during the day.

Spain, which sells many things also sold by Italy throughout the world, stands to profit by a "buy nothing from Italy" policy, and Russia has been firm in the sanctions drive.

League sources forecast that Switzerland's reply would not be wholly satisfactory.

Newspapers announced Switzerland has voted an embargo on arms destined for Italy and Ethiopia, the measure also prohibiting the transit of arms across Switzerland. It also accepted financial and economic sanctions against Italy with the reservation that Switzerland will permit the purchase of Italian goods in sufficient quantity to counterbalance its sales to Italy authorized by the League, whose embargo on exports to Italy applies only to key products.

Little Hope Advanced

London, Oct. 28 (AP)—Authoritative sources suggested today that the present deadlock on Italo-Ethiopian peace prospects may continue "for a long time."

The suggestion was interpreted in a number of ways, a new influence of French-British policy of opposition to the war.

The war had ended with no indication that it was over. It was a long time since any peace negotiations had been held. The League of Nations was still in existence, but it was not clear whether it would be able to bring about a peace.

Further, it was noted that the League of Nations was still in existence, but it was not clear whether it would be able to bring about a peace.

38 Residents Near Incinerator File Complaint With Mayor

A complaint, in the form of a petition signed by 38 residents who reside in the vicinity of the new city incinerator, has been filed with Mayor Heiselman.

The petition states that the incinerator constitutes a public nuisance in that vast quantities of smoke and flame are discharged from the chimney creating a pall of smoke and causing sparks to be emitted from the chimney, which makes the incinerator a serious fire hazard to houses in its vicinity.

The complaint further charges that ashes are emitted from the chimney and scatter over the neighborhood and that gases from the chimney as well as from the unburned residue which is dumped on the ground near the incinerator also add to the discomforts caused by the incinerator.

It is claimed that these conditions have been called to the attention of the Mayor in the past but that nothing has been done to correct them.

The petition follows:

"To Hon. Conrad J. Heiselman, Mayor of the City of Kingston:

We, the undersigned, residents of the city of Kingston in the vicinity of the new incinerator on Wilbur Avenue, do hereby respectfully petition you as the mayor of said city to take steps to correct the following conditions at present existing as a result of the operation of said incinerator: Vast quantities of smoke and flame are discharged from the chimney of said incinerator creating a pall of smoke and a shower of sparks and ashes in the neighborhood which may result in a fire, and noxious and noxious gases are emitted. It is also the practice to dump the sludge, or unburned residue, near said incinerator, creating a highly disagreeable odor, all of which is detrimental to the health and comfort of the residents of said neighborhood and which, therefore, constitutes a public nuisance."

Queries among those who live in the vicinity of the incinerator brought the information that quantities of soot and small ash, together with a disagreeable odor, filled the air around their homes when the wind was blowing in a direction toward them.

In one case it was stated that a lady leaving the house bareheaded returned in a few minutes and found that her hair was covered with fine black ash. Another complained that she was unable to hang out her wash because the clothes became dirty before they could dry.

Still another stated that he had to keep his garage doors closed because his automobile became covered with the ash blowing from the incinerator.

A few weeks ago the mayor stated that complaints had been received concerning the above conditions and that steps had been taken to alleviate them. However, this morning it was said by one of the householders in that section that conditions were as bad as present as they had been in the past.

The Mayor's Answer

Mayor Heiselman in answer today stated that some time ago complaints had been received concerning "fly ash" from the chimney of the incinerator, and that immediately consulting engineers were called in to study the problem. These engineers recommended that a baffle wall be erected to insure perfect combustion until all the refuse had been consumed before reaching the chimney. A week ago Sunday the baffle wall was erected, and the mayor stated that since that time no complaints had come to him. He called attention to the fact that the petition was dated October 17, or before this work to rectify conditions had been done.

The mayor said that if there was "fly ash" or odor at the present time, he had not been informed, and that if such was the case immediate steps would be taken to alleviate this condition. The reason for the fly ash, according to the engineers, was because the fire was not burning the refuse before it reached the chimney and the engineers believed that the baffle wall would prevent this fly ash from reaching the chimney. Improvements have also been made in the operation of the doors of the incinerator, the mayor said, so that a more constant temperature would be maintained in the combustion chamber, thus further insuring complete combustion.

The mayor also said the firemen were inexperienced at the start, not having worked in an incinerator before, but that they had been taught proper methods which also had improved conditions.

campaigning for electoral support on a strong foreign policy platform, observers saw no sign that the government would weaken in its policy that the terms for peace in East Africa must be acceptable to the League of Nations, Ethiopia, and Italy as well.

Commenting on the answer of Secretary of State Hull to the League of Nations, authoritative British sources described it as friendly.

It was said that the tone of the note was thoroughly understood and appreciated in London where it was believed that the United States already had gone as far as could be expected in practical steps to enforce peace.

For that reason, the British government was described as not anticipating that Hull would carry matters beyond the stage apparent early in October with the announcements of President Roosevelt's proclamation.

North Army Advances

By ANDRUE BERDING.

(Copyright, 1935, by Associated Press)

Entisio, Ethiopia, 3:15 p. m., Oct. 27.—The advance guard of Italy's northern armies moved into the mountains shielding Makale today in the second big push of the campaign in Ethiopia.

The new drive, which started yesterday, won water and an important new foothold for the Fascist Black-shirt forces.

The central column under General Alessandro Pirzio-Biroli advanced 20 kilometers (12½ miles) to occupy the Feres Mai valley—the first important advance since the Italian troops halted on the 60-mile former front line from Aksum to Adigrat.

The spearhead of the attack was Poled Todq in the heights looking down the remainder of the line of march to Makale, strategic site 60 miles southeast of Addis.

Air scouts reported no concentration of Ethiopians ahead, but the Italian high command ordered a temporary halt, intending to move slowly and most carefully.

Even discounting the uncertainties of the international political situation, the problems of roads and communications still remained the major reasons why the advance was not rapid.

The engineering corps was busy constructing a road from Entisio to the new front line of the central column.

Big Guns to Move

After it has been completed, the big guns of the artillery will move forward to join the infantry.

The Feres Mai region occupied by General Pirzio-Biroli's troops is where the whole Ethiopian army encamped in February, 1936, before moving on Addis for the decisive battle in which an Italian expeditionary force was routed.

Driving up from the south to meet the northern armies were the Fascist forces under General Rodolfo Graziani.

The southern army was split into three main columns. One marched up the Webbe Shifell river valley toward Addis Ababa. A second, farther to the east, was reported near Walwal. The third, central division, threatened Gorrabeh.

Tropical rains bogged the southern sector but hindered only slightly the advance, which had for its main objective the city of Harar, where the northern and southern armies would meet to unite Italy's colonies of Eritrea and Somaliland.

Some of the hardest fighting has been waged during a tempest, General Graziani reported to the northern field headquarters. As the southern troops advanced they reached higher ground which was cooler and more healthful.

During recent fighting, a number of forts, some cannon, many machine guns and 1,000 rifles have been captured, said official reports from the south.

Black-shirt troops under General Diamanti led the new northern movement from Samata to Adigrat in the Feres Mai valley, calculated to give the main force under General Ruggero Santini protection from a flank attack—favorite device of the Ethiopians.

Strategic Move

The first movement, a 15-kilometer (9½ miles) penetration by the right half of the central column, was described as a strategic advance, rather than a real combat.

Its success paved the way for a forward movement all along the line. The full central column under General Pirzio-Biroli then pushed forward in their Feres Mai valley occupation before halting momentarily in the mountains.

The advance, a turning movement around Mount Gual Amal, about 20 miles southeast of Addis on the route to Makale, gave the army an abundant water supply. Minor bands of armed Ethiopians retreated.

Much of yesterday's push was carried on almost in the clouds. The advance started from Samata, at an altitude of more than 10,000 feet.

Scout Edwin Kittle's Halloween Editorial

A safe and sane Halloween is the subject of an editorial that appeared in the October issue of "The Flying Eagle", a publication put out by a local troop of Boy Scouts, written by Edwin Kittle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin H. Kittle of 26 Van Buren street.

Scout Kittle's editorial on Halloween is as follows:

"Halloween will soon be here, and of course with it comes a lot of fun and pleasure. But it is too bad that some folks mistake fun for mischief and make a general nuisance of themselves around the city and country. There are many other things much more pleasant than soaping windows, upsetting ash cans, and making off with other people's property, thereby causing much inconvenience and loss to them.

"You can make yourself a great help to the community by trying to prevent other boys making such undesirable nuisances of themselves. Try to remember that something which you may think is just fun, may be a real crime, and cause great injury to others. Taking games of lingo, and tripping people with ropes across the sidewalks are all unnecessary.

"Remember too, that a Scout is Thrifty and Helpful, and that since you are a Scout you are expected to live up to these two laws especially on Halloween. This does not mean that they are to sit around and twirl their thumbs but just don't do what you know is wrong. In some of the smaller communities the Scouts band together and act as special police for the whole town. Why you cannot do the same is no excuse for not doing your share to stop damage, and keep out of trouble yourself."

Parla, Oct. 28 (AP)—France's enlistment with the nations which have accepted economic sanctions against Italy sent hopes dwindling today for any early discovery of a satisfactory basis for settlement of the Italo-Ethiopian conflict.

Reports that the Italian army had resumed active operations in Ethiopia also gave a setback to earlier optimism over peace negotiations. Informed French quarters said diplomatic exchanges were being resumed today after a week-end lapse, but they conceded that the peace process was bound to be slow and laborious.

French Pierre Laval, who had taken the lead in the negotiations between Rome, Paris and London, suddenly found his hands full with domestic affairs.

Drafting of 100 odd fresh decrees for approval by the cabinet and promulgation before the government's special powers expire October 31 confronted the premier.

Responsible French sources said they considered the application of economic sanctions against Italy to be unavoidable.

Application of sanctions was demanded by the dominant Radical Socialist party of former Premier Edouard Herriot, which holds six seats in Laval's cabinet.

Rumors were revived that Laval might yield the premiership to someone else in a cabinet shakeup under the burden of his mediation efforts, and devote himself entirely to the handling of foreign affairs, an old role for him.

Should Make Their Reservations at Once

Members of Kingston and Roadview Masonic lodges who are planning to attend the big gathering of Masons to be held at Newburgh Thursday night, October 31, are advised by the members of the local committee to get their reservations for transportation to at once, as Tuesday night is the dead line.

The committee representing the Kingston lodges is composed of Henry H. Smith, Jr., Kenneth Kukul and Edward J. Kukul.

The meeting will be held in Newburgh, Newburgh, and many Masons from Kingston are expected to attend, with members from the various lodges in Ulster, Orange and county counties.

There will be addresses by Judge Arthur S. Thompson and Judge Peter Canfield of Newburgh, a showing of movies and other features.

John Kalb of 209 East 153rd street, Bronx, died this morning at the Sahler Sanitarium in Kingston from the effects of taking bichloride of mercury tablets five days ago.

Kalb, 42 years old, was brought to Kingston for treatment following his taking the poison.

He was a member of the New York City Water Department where he had been employed for 15 years. Coroner W. N. Conner was called and issued a certificate giving the cause of death as suicide from acute nephritis caused by the taking of the poison tablets.

Burial will be on Thursday at Long Island.

CONTE REMEMBERS BURN AT MARLBOROUGH TUESDAY

Marlborough, Oct. 24.—The home of Steve Conte on Highland avenue was entirely destroyed by fire on Thursday evening. The house was all ashies when the flames arrived, the alarm being sent in by a neighbor.

The Conte family was at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Chilton for dinner. They did not know about the fire until a telephone call informed them their home was burning. The house is partly covered by insurance. The wreckage family of two children and Mr. and Mrs. Conte for the present are staying at the Chiltons home.

The water situation here is becoming acute as a result of no rain. With so many fires lately, the reservoir will soon be exhausted.

Nick Bruck Bagged Adirondack Big Game

Nick Bruck, linotype compositor of The Freeman, is back on the job after a week's vacation in the Adirondacks, having returned home Sunday with a nice load of game and big game at that.

Bruck, who made the trip with three companions, is as good a shot in the woods as he is at his linotype keyboard. He and his pals, Nell Bruck, Frank Zelle of Stone Ridge and Joe Gehlinger of New York, shot two eight point bucks, three bears and a red fox.

The Frank Bruck of the composing room force had a busy morning on his first day back to work, telling the rest of the type setters how to do a job with a rifle in the Adirondacks.

RED CROSS NEEDS YOUR AID

This is the time of year for the annual Red Cross Roll Call, an event which comes only once each year, but which through the aid of thousands of persons makes this world a better place through the alleviation of suffering and the prevention of disease and accident.

Contrary to the belief of many that the Red Cross serves only in time of war and major disaster, surveys have shown that this organization has constantly been at work with a broad program. The Red Cross has in the last year accomplished the following things:

Issued 52,000 certificates to those completing courses in home hygiene and care of the sick.

Trained 187,000 in the procedure of first aid to the injured.

Issued more than 74,000 Life Saving certificates to life guards following courses in water rescue, water safety and resuscitation methods.

Enrolled 7,750,000 children in the Red Cross Juniors, who are concerned with lightening the burden of institution inmates.

Organized Red Cross volunteers, who made a total of 1,572,000 garments; 4,000,000 surgical dressings; 16,000 Christmas bags for distribution to our soldiers at distant Army posts.

Extended aid to nearly 300,000 ex-service men and families.

Gave Red Cross relief to sufferers in 160 major disasters.

The local unit is the representative of the national organization in Kingston. With this system it is possible for the national body to ascertain the needs in this community through the local unit. Should some unfortunate occasion arise where aid was needed the resources of the national body would be rushed here. This same thing is true of every other section of the country.

To make possible this work, the Red Cross calls upon everyone once each year for a contribution. Its capacity to serve is limited only by those whom it serves. The Red Cross needs your aid again this year.

HIGHER WORLD MORALS

George Bernard Shaw has his usual fun with the public and the British government in commenting on the Italian-Ethiopian affair. He says:

Our love of exalted moral attitudes responds rapturously to this. But there's a catch to it.

The complete logic of the situation not only involves the excitement of sending young men to drop bombs on Rome and Florence and Venice, and certainly Ravenna and Padua, where we spend such delightful holidays, but the transfer to the League of Nations of New Zealand, Canada, Australia, India, Gibraltar and our South African dominions. In short, all those territories which we annexed precisely as Italy proposes to annex Ethiopia.

Mussolini is merely following Britain's past example rather than her present precepts, says Shaw. There is a limit to the possibilities of unscrupulous national possessions acquired in the past. Is there not also a limit to the employment of the methods of the past? No great powers and few of the little ones have clean hands in this matter of territory grabbing. Still, that hardly constitutes a valid reason for not trying to change the old ways. Civilization advances steadily. It slowly, in decency and humaneness. The nations have made greater progress in idealism collectively than they have yet made individually. World opinion today condemns national acts which it would have approved before the World War.

BORDER CLASHES

Japan and Russia would get into a border fight at a time like this! All Europe and Africa are jittery, and must Asia, too, get the jitters? On the face of the first reports, that little war on the Amur river, where the northern tip of Manchuria juts into eastern Siberia, doesn't look very important. There might be just a little difference of opinion between border guards. The Amur delta is bed occasionally, making the boundary doubtful. We used to have similar troubles with Mexico along the Rio Grande.

Yet you never can tell. The Japanese Imperialists want eastern Siberia along with northern China, and would like to shove the Russian Bear back far to the west. The Russian government expects war with Japan, but is postponing it as long as possible, to push its industrialization program. The racial antagonism and geographical conflict are such that, with war in the air, a little border scarp might light up a big conflagration.

There is Hitler, too, in Central Europe, watching and waiting to grab coveted territory when Russia's back is turned. It is a mad world. The nations may be entering another war cycle. If so, they can count on our side in the outside.

NEW YORKERS PAY THE BILL

According to the latest official figures released from Washington, by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, the unfairness of the processing taxes to consumers in New York State is very apparent. One need only compare the amounts paid and received by the states of New York and Texas, to verify this deduction.

There was collected from consumers, up to June 30, 1935:

New York State... $97,870,101.68

Texas... 23,230,629.09

There was returned to farmers as benefit payments up to June 30, 1935:

New York State... $446,418.51

Texas... 101,008,961.60

These same figures placed on a per capita basis show that for every $10.00 per capita dollar paid in New York State, only four and one-half cents was returned. In Texas, for every $10.00 per capita dollar paid, $43.52 was returned.

Is it any wonder that these western and southern states are anxious to have this program continue, when they realize that the industrial East is footing the bill—and the chief contributor to this program in New York.

Albanians Oldest People

The Albanians are an old people, the oldest in the Balkans. Their ancestors occupied the country along the eastern shore of the Adriatic, called Illyria by the Romans and Epirus by the Greeks, before the beginning of Rome or Greece; and, although in the succeeding centuries they have at different times been subject to the Macedonians, Romans, Goths, Slavs, Normans, Venetians and finally the Turks, they have on account of their strong nationalistic character been able to maintain themselves practically unmixed with other peoples.

About the most that can be said, notes a writer in the New York Herald Tribune, is that their various overlords have here and there added a few words to their otherwise unique language. Like the Scotch and the Welsh, their mountain houses defied complete subjugation.

HIGH COURAGE

ANNOYANCE. Although Anne Schwenk has lost some, for the moment she is not downhearted. She has taken refuge with her family in Kingston, N. Y., and is waiting for the family to return from the city. She is waiting for the family to return from the city. She is waiting for the family to return from the city.

Chapter 21 LIBRA'S PLANS

A BLOW smile touched Anne's pale lips. At least she could make Milna happy, and ease life a little for Tecla. Milna had said the boys might buy a girlie of their own. She could loan them the money for it, and instead of Milna's taking Tecla's place in the cannery, she could go to business college as she'd dreamed of doing.

When Anne awakened the next morning the house was still. A fresh wind billowed the curtains, sunlight flooded the room. Donning robe and slippers, she opened the door and listened. No sound of voices, or footsteps. She called once, and receiving no answer went down the steep narrow stairway.

The big kitchen was empty. The round table was set for one, and before the plate, tipped against a cup, was a note:

Nikki! I'm off to work. The kids are taking their lunch. Open the draughts and the fire will pick up. Coffee on back of stove, bread in green box with red top. In the cooler's some stout to heat up for your lunch. Aunt Lila says to take the magazine in her room. She's coming home early today. Don't bother her about the work. Love, Milna.

Anne looked about the room. The dishes were unwashed but neatly stacked in the sink. Milna's couch was open; it looked tumbled, as if she hadn't slept well.

Anne went back to her room, found an old housewife of Milna's and set about her first housework. This was different from the kitchen of her old home where she had played at housekeeping under the amused eyes of the servants.

An hour later, unable to find anything else she could do, she slipped into an old sweater and went out on the rear porch, which backed up against the hill. A steep wooden stairway led to a ramshackle old house above. Anne looked at it a moment. It was deserted. There would be a good view from there.

There was. Finding a sheltered, sunny corner in the yard, she settled down and for a while was content to sit basking in the sun, looking down on Union Town, the wharves with their drying fish nets, the red canneries jutting out into the water.

From here she could see how the two boys joined the Columbia to pour their waters into the Pacific ocean, marked by the lip of foam at the bar, and a line of black rock jetties. Riding gently on the broad expanse were numerous small boats drifting with the tide, net boats gleaming red.

Anne remembered the last trip on the Abhi and how she had told Luke that she felt as though she were only then coming home, and he had seemed startled. Well, perhaps it was to be home, for a while at least.

She looked down on the town. It seemed sheltered from the rest of the world. The hill behind her thrust two arms towards the water, holding it between them. The thought of ever having to leave it; to pass those protecting barriers, brought a rush of fear.

NIKKI! Oh Nikki! A strident voice which could belong to no one but Lila, sounded from below. Anne stood up and looked over the rough board fence which bound the deserted garden to its hillside.

"I'm up here," she answered.

"So will I be, in a minute," came the tart rejoinder, and a moment later Lila hove in sight, arms burdened with waxed paper packages, coffee pot, tin cups dangling from a crooked little finger.

"Nice here," she observed, as she topped the steps. "Picnic, sit down." Anne sat. Lila gathered a few rocks, a few twigs and took a corner from one bag, then after starting a little fire over which she balanced the coffee pot, she turned to the girl.

"You know of course that you can't stay on at Tecla's; there isn't room."

Anne just had been telling herself the same thing, but hearing it from another came as a shock. She looked at Lila. She had bent over to tend to the fire and the queer comical shaped pile of hair she wore on top of her head tilted side-wise like a

MODERN FREEMAN CAVEMEN LIVE IN CLIFFS OF LOIRE

Tours, France. (AP)—More than 1,200 persons make their homes in artificial caverns their ancestors cut out of the limestone cliffs bordering the Loire river.

Living in the heart of the chateau country, they are cave-men in the literal, if not anthropological sense. Many dwellings are equipped with gas, electricity and radio.

It is not poverty, but economic convenience in such cases that keep these modern cave-men in their caves. Many work on the premises as wine-distillers.

Cave-men from Antelope A.M. Abandon. (AP)—Four that persons who had been encouraged by one of the reasons offered by the Abandoners were coming to reject a proposal for a municipal crematorium. Councilmen stated that these persons would have gone from it if there had been cremation of their victims.

MEET THE CANDIDATES

A Series of Word Pictures of Republican Candidates

JOHN J. SCHWENK

Running mate on the Republican ticket with Conrad J. Heiselman is Alderman-at-large John J. Schwenk. When Heiselman became Mayor it was Schwenk who was chosen by his constituents to the position of alderman-at-large and at that time he received every vote of the Republican members, while the three Democratic members were opposed because they did not believe that Mr. Heiselman was eligible to become mayor in the first place.

During the election of 1933 John Schwenk increased his majority in his ward as a candidate for alderman and carried this ward even though it gave a majority of votes to the Democratic mayoralty candidate, Eugene B. Carey.

Friends of Mr. Schwenk feel that he would make a good mayor and laud his work as presiding officer of the aldermen. In the event of any disability of the mayor it would be John Schwenk who would take over the city's administration.

During his work in public office his record shows that he has been most active in several major and constructive changes affecting Kingston citizens.

For a year he fought to amend the charter to allow payment of taxes in two installments during the year rather than the old requirement of paying them all at one time, for which hundreds are grateful. With equal energy he championed the sewer construction program now completed by the CWA emergency bureau.

In private business Mr. Schwenk is an acting supervisor of the plant in Kingston of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company.

During the eleven-day office of Harry Walker he was chairman of the important laws and rules committee of the common council, which chairmanship was won through merit of ability he showed while an alderman his first term.

Mr. Schwenk's close association with Mayor Heiselman has taught him the many problems of the city which he has learned from first-hand experience. In a few instances he has been acting mayor during the absence of Mr. Heiselman but during these times there has never been occasion for any necessary official act to be performed. Competent, reliable and hard-working, Mr. Schwenk backs the administration of Mayor Heiselman to the best of his ability and has been instrumental with his contribution of services to Kingston citizens.

Mr. Schwenk is married and has two daughters, ages eleven and six. He is a member of the Elks, Moose, Junior Order of United American Mechanics, the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, the Y. M. C. A., Triangle Club. He attended the Knights of Columbus' night school in New York City then employed there some years ago.

A Washington Daybook

By HERBERT PLUMMER

WASHINGTON — A resignation from the present administration is in the offing which promises to remove from the Washington scene one of the most dynamic and outspoken figures since the days of General Hugh Johnson.

His name is J. N. (Ding) Darling, chief of the bureau of biological survey.

"Ding" was known to the country as a newspaper cartoonist long before he took over his duties as a government official more than a year and a half ago. He added to that reputation, particularly among Washington politicians and observers, by his display of nerve to say publicly what he thought about the way things were being done and to criticize his superiors in official ranks.

Bought It Himself
When he took office his quarters were equipped with plain, unadorned and uncomfortable furniture. Bought by the government, it was assigned after much red tape to his office.

A short while later his visitors were struck by luxurious overfurnished furniture—a bright blue leather sofa and easy chairs—equal in quality and comfort to those found in the executive offices of the White House and in cabinet members' reception rooms. Modernistic ashtrays were scattered all around. When asked for an explanation, "Ding" said: "That's easy. When I came up here, they had a lot of junk scattered around the room. I simply got tired of my friends having to sit around on a lot of park benches in my office. So I went out and bought this myself."

His contempt for red tape is proverbial around the agriculture department. His favorite trick, when orders had to go through the regular "channels," was to tack them under his arm and make the rounds until he obtained the approval of every one concerned.

Resignation Expected
"Ding" said what he pleased regardless of what the reaction might be. Frequently his observations rocked directors of other bureaus and departments.

He once said of Secretary Wallace, for example, that his fellow towns and close personal friend leaves much to be desired as a conservationist. "Now and then a secretary of agriculture," he observed, "may be given an address on the need for conservation if someone will prepare the speech for him."

"Ding's" friends say the real reason he wants to resign is because of the insistent demand of newspaper readers and editors that he return to cartooning. Just when he'll return is as yet indefinite. Insiders expect it at any time.

TREATMENT OF EPILEPSY

Although the cause of epilepsy is still unknown despite the thorough search in all parts of the world, the treatment is now so helpful that most cases are kept free from attacks, and the attacks of others are much less severe.

The treatment now is:

(a) Cutting down on all starch foods—bread, sugar, candy, potatoes, pastry, marmalade.

(b) Cutting down on all liquids—tea, coffee, water, soft and hard drinks of all kinds.

(c) Increasing the amount of the fat foods—butter, oleomargarine, cream, fat meats, egg yolks, cheese, pork, goose, nuts, chocolate, vegetable oils—olive, peanut, cottonseed.

(d) The use of drugs known as the barbiturates which are generally used in the form of phenobarbital in one-quarter to one-and-a-half grain doses.

Keeping strictly to the above treatment has meant a complete change in the lives of many afflicted with what are known as "epileptoid" symptoms. They have been enabled to go about their work or play without fear of the embarrassment of these attacks.

Formerly there was a question as to whether these attacks would not in time cause mental symptoms—mental decay—but research workers tell us that these individuals are usually as bright as their fellows and there is no loss in mental ability.

Now that this drug (the barbiturates) is so generally used the question arises as to what will be the effect of the constant or daily use of this drug on the mental ability or intelligence.

Drs. Fetterman and Barnes in an article on "Serial Studies of the Intelligence of Patients with Epilepsy" in Archives of Neurology and Psychiatry say: "Another finding from this study is that the intelligence is not materially altered by the continued use of sedative (quieting) drugs. The majority of patients included in the study had been taking a sedative usually phenobarbital in doses of from 2 to 6 grains daily. As these patients showed no significant deterioration (loss in mental ability) it is suggested that the long-continued use of these sedatives does not of itself produce a reduction in the intelligence."

It is reassuring to know that from the standpoint of intelligence anyway this helpful drug is doing no harm.

Place Names Associated With Our Common Foods

Many place names are mainly known by their association with some article of common use, says THE N.Y. Magazine. Seattle and Java go with oranges; Barcelona and Brazil with nuts; the Canary Islands with bananas; Ceylon, China and Assam with tea; a little village, six miles south of Aberdeen, called Fifehead, and pronounced Fifehead, is known all over the globe by reason of its superb dried haddock.

Similarly, Vermont is associated with blueberries, Whitehall with oysters, Canterbury (New Zealand) with lamb, Devon with coffee, Bath with a certain kind of brick and stone, as well as with beer. Current goes with Portland, here with Kaffirbanana, carpets with Kildarebanana and Brussels, although the last-named is probably better known by its French name. Turkey has long been associated with Turkey reds and Turkish delight, as well as with currants, and Jerusalem is needed to enrich the vocabulary of those who eat for thousands of years by reason of their capriciousness.

Sundown Stories

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

WELL, well, well, said the little man Willy Nilly as he stroked his side-whiskers, "my animal friends are certainly being very quiet. I hope they're not being too quiet. I wouldn't want them to be starting any mischief. There is so much to be done."

Just then he saw Rip running along toward the cave with Sweet Face, the lamb, following.

"Rip," called Willy Nilly, "is everything all right?"

"Bow-wow-wow," barked Rip. "Everything is fine."

"Can't you stop for a chat and a bone?" called Willy Nilly.

"Later, later," Rip called back. "I've never known him to refuse a bone and a chat with me before."

Willy Nilly to himself, "I'm becoming a trifle uneasy. I think I'll follow along and see what is happening."

Christopher flying overhead saw Willy Nilly start for the cave.

"Go back, go back," cawed Christopher.

"Don't you want me to be with you?" asked Willy Nilly a little sadly.

Christopher came down and perched on Willy Nilly's shoulder.

"Please go back and stay in your house," he urged. "People who come are to have birthdays should never come around."

"So that's it!" exclaimed Willy Nilly. "I'd almost forgotten about it." So he went back to his house, thinking joyfully of his wonderful Puddle Muddlers.

In the meantime they met at the cave and now all plans were in readiness for the celebration.

HIGH FALLS

High Falls, Oct. 28.—Miss Fannie Elmendorf left on Friday afternoon, October 25, with Mrs. George Young for California. They will motor through to Ohio, where they will stay off for a week or 10 days to visit friends of Mrs. Young. All trust they may have a most enjoyable trip.

Mrs. Frank Davis and her son, Raymond Davis, of Kingston motored out to the home of her father, John H. Ayers, on Thursday morning.

Thomas Abrams and son, Oscar Abrams, and Dr. Robert Agnew of Springfield, Mass., motored out on Friday and visited the High Falls cemetery. They stopped off for a moment to greet Miss Jessie Snyder and Miss Mary C. Van Wagenen, who was their first school teacher.

Miss Mary Krom entertained relatives over the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Savage of New Jersey visited her sister, Mrs. Ganse Beach, this week, returning to their home on Thursday.

Miss Louise D. Van Wagenen spent the day with her aunt, Miss Mary C. Van Wagenen, on Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Parker and daughter, Doris, of Grand George were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Williams.

The Ladies' Missionary Society will hold its regular monthly meeting on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Festus Yeaple. The subject is "Kentucky."

Mr. and Mrs. Victor G. Purcell were callers in town on Friday.

A number of the candidates have been through this place electioneering.

The chicken supper held in the basement of the Reformed Church on Thursday evening was a huge success. There was an unusually large crowd present and due to the selling of the tickets at the upstairs church door, the congregation was relieved, there was more space for serving downstairs and everyone had a better opportunity to enjoy a social time with friends. The food supply was bountiful.

The old fashioned woman who used to spend the beautiful autumn days putting up catsup now has a daughter who thinks that the best flavoring which comes in bottles is creme de menthe.

DESPERATE BATTLE AGAINST FOREST FIRE

This photo shows graphically the desperate fight waged against the fierce forest fire which swept sections of California and caused damage estimated at $8,000,000. McGinnies Supports "Home Rule" Proposal

Former Speaker Joseph A. McGinnies, who is chairman of the upstate committee for the County Home Rule Amendment, in urging support for Amendment Number One, said:

"The Amendment divides itself into two parts; one portion relates to the reorganization of the county government of the five counties included in the Greater City of New York and the other to the local government of the remaining 57 counties of the state. While I am interested in any amendment to the constitution which will permit the city of New York to improve its governmental structure, I am primarily concerned about the effect of the amendment on the local government of the rest of the state.

"For some time past I have observed a growing demand in certain counties for fundamental changes in their county and local government. Every one of these counties contains a large urban population. In recent years, they have attempted to overcome their particular difficulties through the medium of special and local legislation. It must be conceded that the problem cannot be entirely solved by such methods. Before the maximum efficiency of local government in these counties can be attained, it is probable that some of the constitutional obstacles must be eliminated.

"On the other hand, there are many counties in the state in which county and town government is functioning satisfactorily. Its simplicity is reflected in economy and efficiency. It supplies the governmental needs of the inhabitants of these counties at the lowest possible cost. In these counties there is no desire nor need for drastic change.

"In one group, we find those who desire an opportunity to change their local government, and, in the other group, those who express themselves as generally satisfied with the manner in which the county and town have met their governmental requirements.

"The County Home Rule Amendment, of itself, will make no change in the local government of this state. It will, however, permit the reorganization of local government in counties where the voters so desire. In counties where the people are satisfied with their existing government, it will prevent any alteration without their consent. Amendment Number One, if approved by the voters, will extend the principle of 'home rule' now enjoyed by the cities, to the counties, towns, villages and school districts of this state.

"After all, it vests in the people of each county the right to determine the form of their local government, and I believe in that."

Donnarumma Hits Conway's Answers

Robert A. Donnarumma, Democratic candidate for member of assembly, made the following statement today:

"My opponent, the incumbent Assemblyman of Ulster county, answers my charge against him with a mass of meaningless words, phrases and sentences.

"By their fruits ye shall know them." The official records show conclusively that Mr. Conway opposed 66 per cent of the major labor and social bills sponsored and desired by the New York State Federation of Labor and Governor Lehman. Compared with the records of other assemblymen from all over New York state, I again state that my opponent's record on these measures is one of the worst.

Mr. Conway tells that he voted against unemployment insurance in 1935 because Congress was going to pass similar legislation on a national scale. That is a feeble excuse. Minority Leader Laves and former Speaker McGinnies voted for the unemployment insurance measure. Governor Lehman and former Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt had been advocates of a state unemployment insurance, and through their insistence this measure had been introduced in previous sessions of the Legislature.

Upon the passage of unemployment insurance legislation, the Citizens' Union of New York city, through its legislative representative termed the passage of it "the greatest legislative contribution in the history of this state."

Incidentally, New York state—thanks to Governor Lehman and a Democratically controlled Legislature—was the first state in the Union to pass unemployment insurance legislation.

The records show that Mr. Conway opposed unemployment insurance in 1933 and again in 1934 by voting against it. He is still against unemployment insurance. No man can vote against a measure for three years in succession and then attempt to offer a soft-soap excuse when he is asked to give an account of his stewardship.

Mr. Conway evidently does not think that workmen are entitled to trial by jury in the event of labor disputes. I was taught in the Kingston schools that the Constitution of the United States provided trial by jury as a method of justice. My opponent says that by giving workmen a trial by jury in the event of labor disputes encourages defiance of law. The public press carries stories of Samuel Insull, Dutch Schultz, thieves and murderers being granted the right to trial by jury. The workman, according to the philosophy of Mr. Conway, should be left "holding the bag."

Mr. Conway says that he is proud of his record at Albany. What record, Mr. Conway? In the past session you did not offer a single measure for the real benefit of the people of this county, at least I have not found any. You sat like a sphinx in one of the rear rows of the Assembly chamber and was aroused only long enough to register your vote of obstructionism to impede the progress of the greatest legislative session ever witnessed in this state of New York.

British Taxpayers Filled With Gloom By Defense Plans

By ROGER D. GREENE.

London (P).—Already groaning under an income tax of $1.35 per $5, British taxpayers are gloomily weighing their privy purses against the calls of patriotism as symbolized by a proposed million-dollar defense program.

That sum, according to financial experts, will be needed to bring Britain's navy, army and air force up to date.

But the question—already stirring fiery debate on street corners, in money markets and political halls—whether the money should be raised by a defense loan, similar to American Liberty Bonds, or by direct taxation.

"Happiness Loan?"

Many a jaundiced eye greeted Lord Mottistone's booming suggestion that it should be called "the great national happiness loan," using national credit, as represented by some $5,000,000 savings amassed in the three major savings institutions, to bolster defense forces.

"It is improbable that we shall escape without any measure of rearmament," says The Economist.

"The question therefore remains whether it is wise and proper that at this stage in our history we should proceed by way of a loan. Our answer is emphatically No!"

"Against the argument for an inflationary loan there are two decisive arguments. The first is that loans should be reserved for social needs, such as better housing, which are and will remain a lasting benefit to the nation."

"The second and final argument is political. If Britain gives the lead in rearmament by means of loans, our example will be copied all over the world."

Another Point of View.

On the other hand, "The Times" editorially applauds the idea of a loan rather than taxation, declaring:

"The new obligation should be discharged with the least possible interference with the ideal of gradually reducing the burden of taxation. This consideration suggests that the cost should be met by a loan."

Other critics stoutly maintain that the best method would be a 14-year defense loan with a heavy sinking fund rather than a long-term loan which would carry the burden of taxation to generations unborn.

Miss Nichols Will Fly Despite Fifth Crash, Tells of Troy Accident

Troy, N. Y., Oct. 28 (AP).—Refusing to be discouraged by broken bones and painful burns—a legacy from her fifth airplane crash—Miss Nichols looked forward today to a speedy return to the air.

"Wherever the air trail leads to," the noted aviatrix said in an interview, "I shall be there with bells on."

It was just a week ago today that Miss Nichols was injured and her co-pilot, Capt. Harry Hublitz, killed as a 20-passenger plane crashed and burned near the Troy airport. She has been in four other airplane accidents, one as she attempted to take off on a trans-Atlantic flight.

Smiling despite the bandages and speaking with spirit, Miss Nichols talked freely of her latest crash and urged that women take a greater interest in aviation.

"When economic conditions improve," she said, "it is to be hoped that the aviation industry will see the value of women both in flying and non-flying jobs, since even their flying record, so far as percentages go, measures up very favorably against the men."

"We also trust that all women of good mental and physical condition, who can afford to operate a low-priced plane will take up piloting as a sport."

"We will always have accidents to the air, just as we shall always have them on the ground in automobiles, steamers, trains and other forms of transportation. The layman must now concentrate his attention on the percentage of air accidents and realize as a consequence under normal conditions the chances are just as good as in other forms of travel."

The diminutive, brown-haired miss, the second woman to receive a transport pilot's license, was concluding a "good-will" tour when she was injured.

"We left the airport easily and had been climbing for a few minutes," she said. "Suddenly the left motor emitted a loud bang and the revolutions immediately started to fall."

Hublitz, who was at the controls, decided to turn back, she said, but both realized they couldn't make it as they neared the trees bordering the airport.

"Almost simultaneously with my own thought Hublitz said, 'We're not going to make it,' to which I replied, 'I know it.' Not much time elapsed between that point and when we actually hit, but I do remember exclaiming loudly, 'It can't be possible that we're actually going to be washed up.'"

"From then on it was darkness until I started coming to in the hospital."

Miss Nichols expects her "busted members" will be healed in a month and it will take her another month "to find where my services will be most needed."

"Of course, I'm going to continue to fly professionally."

Halloween "Party-Graphs"

The time is approaching when witches and hobgoblins will influence the frolics of the youngsters—and many grown-ups as well. Suggestions for "bewitching foods" are in order.

"WHEN THE PUMPKINS GRIN"

Orange juice, chilled or frozen, served with fancy sandwiches is fitting to serve for party, club or sorority refreshments.

"Features" can be traced easily on candles, cakes, cookies or sandwiches by using sweet chocolate, melted and applied on small wooden sticks.

Use well formed pumpkin for holding pickles, stuck with appetizers for serving with cocktails.

Yellow cream cheese fashioned into tiny "pumpkins" can accompany fruit or vegetable salad.

Popped corn or puffed wheat or rice balls, usually favorites, can be served, wrapped in orange colored crepe paper, covered with black cats cut from paper.

The traditional refreshments, doughnuts, cider and apples can have the serving varied by arranging doughnuts on handle of toy broom and pouring cider from large jug and placing apples in large wooden bowl.

Jack-O-Lantern Pie

1 baked pie shell
1 cup sugar
1/2 cup flour
1/4 teaspoon salt
Blend sugar with flour and salt. Add cocoa, yolks and milk. Cook until thick in double boiler. Stir frequently. Add vanilla and pour into pie shell. Arrange "Features" on top using marshmallows. Make a "Tringe" of meringue around sides of pie. Brown 5 minutes in moderate oven.

Marzipan

1 egg white
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup almond meal
Beat whites until stiff. Add sugar and beat until creamy. Arrange a one inch rim or fringe of this mixture outlining the edge of pie.

Apple That Made Eden History Couldn't Compete With Today's

New York Apples Are Suitable For Every Meal, Every Day in the Year

By PETER G. TEN EYCK
Commissioner, Department of Agriculture and Markets
Albany, New York

THE well known apple of the Garden of Eden would hardly be considered a tempting morsel when compared with apples grown by New York State orchardists.

Today's fruit varieties are superior selections found worthy to replace many of the older kinds which were favorites even a few for breakfast, dinner, or supper, and besides, apples may be eaten between meals without the indigestions usually aimed at "piecing."

In addition, New York State fruit growers have introduced enough varieties to enable them to supply consumers almost continuously from mid-summer to the following May and June with apples of a wide variety of flavors and special qualities attractively colored red, green, and yellow, with the reds predominating. Now, one of the red apples is the reigning favorite.

This favorite variety, McIntosh, is described technically as being roundish-ovate, solid red in highly colored specimens, with white, tender, juicy, perfumed, mild sub-acid flesh of very good to best quality.

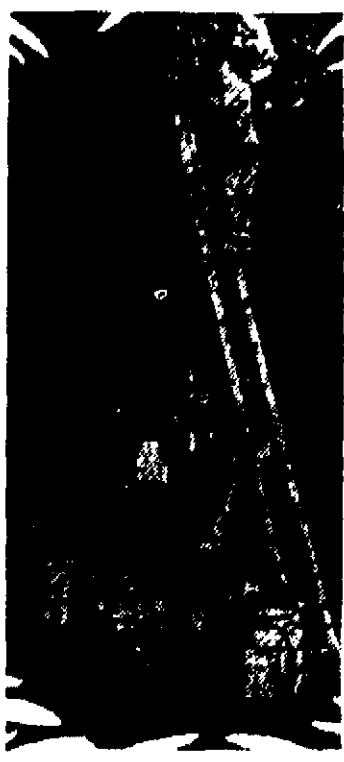

"Sweet Apple"

The small boy described the McIntosh in fewer words as: "Gee, this is one sweet apple." Tart enough to give zest and sweet enough to satisfy, the McIntosh merits the small boy's enthusiasm as an eating apple. Housewives, on the other hand, will commend the variety's culinary qualities.

It is not difficult to suggest ways to use many of the New York State varieties such as the old favorites: Baldwin and Rhode Island Greening, or the Cortland, Northern Spy, Rome Beauty and Jonathan. Applesauce, or baked apple with cream, pie with an accompanying slab of New York State cheese, apple Kuchen, apple coffee cake, and apple dumplings are but a few ways they may be served.

A dish or plate filled with apples always invites the family to eat their apple for the day. And when suggesting satisfying ways to use apples, fresh apple cider, with or without the traditional doughnut, is a privilege of the fall season.

Consumers' Information Service will be only too glad to mail the apple recipe book to any address without cost if a request is sent to the Department of Agriculture and Markets, Albany, N. Y.

The apple harvest in New York State decades ago. The discovery, development and testing of new fruit varieties in New York State is a fascinating story of hopes, failures, successes and accomplishment dating back to the earliest importations of apple trees from Holland to the Hudson Valley.

Wide Variety

Apples today are inexpensive, palatable, nutritious and healthful and can be used, probably, in a greater variety of ways than any other fruit. They may be served

GOOD PERSONALITY MEANS SUCCESS AND HAPPINESS IN YOUR LIFE

BLUES ARE A DANGER SIGNAL—AVOID THEM!

Sometimes you just plain have the blues! You aren't grieving over a real misfortune, but you're blue for no reason at all.

Blues of this kind are a danger signal. They may mean loss of friends, fewer invitations, or poor work. The woman who is blue all the time can't get up courage to tackle her housework, mend Tommy's coat, make that lemon pie the family likes, or manage all the other tasks that make her a good home-mother. Strangely enough, there are just as many deep-dyed blue people among those in the best of health and in good circumstances as there are among the lame, the blind, and the poverty-stricken.

Causes of the Blues

Psychologists give the following as some of the causes of the blues: Going through a mental strain. Getting excited, and not working off excitement in activity.

Unconscious inner tension. Bodily sluggishness from lack of fresh air and exercise.

Lowered vitality due to fatigue and lack of sleep.

Blues brought on by any of these causes may become a habit, and it is quite as necessary to get rid of this habit as it is to fight a disease. There are just as sure cures for the blues as there are causes. Here are a few:

Hunt up a happy-natured friend and have a pleasant chat. Take a brisk walk.

Read a cheerful book. Go to a lively play or movie. Give your hands something to do; make a cake, knit a bed-jacket, and have the fun of giving them to someone.

Get enough sleep. Genuine blues are rooted in personality, not in misfortune, and you really can overcome this gloomy habit.

Helpful Booklet

This is just one instance of modifying your personality for the better. You may not be troubled by blues at all, yet you may say to yourself, "How I wish I didn't get so excited over everything!" or "My hot temper is costing me a lot of friends," or "I wish I could be as charming and tactful as Elaine is."

You will find help on vital personality problems in our 40-page Home Institute booklet, IMPROVING YOUR PERSONALITY, which discusses:

Emotional Phase of Personality Dealing with Temperaments

Tact Charm Speech Physical Aspect of Personality Types of Personality

MODES OF THE MOMENT

The formal silhouettes go classic. Diana Merwin

Classic silhouettes of unusual grace are seen in latest modes for formal wear. The new gowns are slim and form fitting at front with long, flowing panels and scarf-like drapes that hang free and trail backward from the shoulders, sleeves or back neckline. Gathered fullness, puffed loop effects and fin or rudder-like folds that hang down the center at back add variety to the new back draped silhouettes.

Three views are shown above of a charming gown in the drapery theme. Fashioned of military green crepe with gorgeous contrast of rust velvet for a twisted girdle and huge flowers at back. The grace of the gown is centered in the long trailing, shirred panel at back. The surprise front and back bodice is flattering, yet very simple, high at front and gracefully low at back. The pleated manner in which this bodice is draped gives it quite a Grecian cast. Grecian trends of fashion vie with the renaissance period for first place in formal fashions for the winter social season.

Garden Yields Ton of Food.

Dimmitt, Tex., (AP).—From a garden plot 100 by 200 feet, Mrs. Edd Peacock harvested almost a ton of food this year. About half supplied the current needs for the family table; the other half was canned or placed in storage. Several bushels of onions, two tubs of peas and more than 200 pounds of cabbage put up as kraut came from the harvest.

No Corn—No Corn Husking.

Marysville, Kas., (AP).—There won't be any corn husking contest in Marshall county this year, the farm bureau decided. Officials couldn't find enough corn in one field.

Jolson Car "Built Up."

Hollywood, (AP).—Al Jolson had a $6,000 body built on an $800 roadster, which he and his wife, Ruby Keeler, dash around town in.

Perpetual puzzles

THESE puzzles we have married are disturbingly feminine. They sit across the table from us and smile riddles. They treat us like spoiled children, and yet like kings. They ferret out our secret poker games—and collect! They devastate our reasoned actions by a caprice . . . and we love it.

How do these wives of ours manage to keep so young, so attractive, so full of life? Well for one thing, they have learned that the advertising pages are their willing servants. Here they read of an appliance that turns mornings of drudgery into hours of leisure. There is a cosmetic blended to fit the skin like a glove. Or a new recipe to tempt your appetite.

Right now, your wife is busy with fall buying. And she lets the advertisements shoulder part of the task. They bring her good news about fall gowns and gloves, blankets, perhaps a fire screen, new slippers for you, a sweater for Junior. . . . She reads the advertisements carefully and they save her time, trouble, worry—and money.

Glory of the Iroquois Is Recalled Each Year

The Iroquois council was composed of six nations: The Mohawks, Senecas, Onondagas, Oneidas, Cayugas and Tuscororas. When the Dutch settled New Amsterdam in 1623, they found in the wilderness a republic whose constitution was the most consummate piece of statesmanship ever devised by the wit of man.

Long before Alexander Hamilton was born these six Indian nations worked out a confederacy such as the world had not seen and gave him a pattern for the United States Constitution, says a writer in the Cleveland Plain Dealer. Long before us these most wonderful of all aboriginals were indeed the imperial people, the "Romans of the West." They wrote no books, they built no monuments. Their greatness is all but forgotten. But they left oral traditions that their wise men insist have been told for more than 1,000 years.

From these traditions are called and adapted the rites, customs and solemn ceremonies observed centuries ago, with which one night early each September, in the Moon of Flaming Leaves, in the heart of the forest, under the stars, in recognition of great facts in human history, palefaces recall the glory of the Iroquois, who were indeed the "first families" of the Adirondacks and of the continent.

Mass Attack Planned On Disease by Medicos

San Francisco, Oct. 28 (AP)—A mass attack on disease and death on three principal fronts—automobile accidents, industrial casualties and cancer—was plotted here today by 2,000 fellows of the American College of Surgeons.

Although the organization's 25th clinical congress is to cover almost all the year's scientific advances in the profession, these three have been singled out for special attention.

By consolidating the field forces of surgery against the costly toll from this "fateful trinity" physicians hope to attain an impetus which will check the rising curve.

Failure of the public to cooperate in health campaigns was said today by Dr. C. Jeff Miller, professor of gynecology at Tulane University School of Medicine, to have contributed much to the suffering and premature death "which is widespread in the United States."

He declared medical science has proved its value by more than trebling the life span of the average citizen in the last four centuries and has added six years to that span in the last two decades "yet people still object to being vaccinated against smallpox and typhoid."

"They will not, he said, take advantage of diphtheria and scarlet fever tests or methods of protecting against them."

"Whose fault it is," he asks, "that the United States wage earners lose two and a half million working days each year and school children lose more than a million and a half days because of sickness?"

"Why should 13,000 people die annually in the United States, 11,000 of them children under 10 years, whose fault is it that thousands of people still die annually of diphtheria in the United States and thousands of typhoid fever?"

The fault, he said, is largely that of the public, due to their indifference and unwillingness to cooperate.

KINGSTON HOSPITALS ON LIST OF APPROVED HOSPITALS

The Benedictine Hospital of Kingston, capacity 100 beds, and the Kingston Hospital, capacity 133 beds, are among the hospitals approved by the American College of Surgeons. It was pointed out that when the first survey was made in 1918 there were only 85 hospitals which met the requirements for approval; today there are 2,523 on the approved list.

Hudson's Mythical Champions Bow To Yellow Jackets By 12-0

Kingston's Well Balanced Attack Too Much for Columbia County Gridders at the Fair Grounds—Bill Mosby and Gil Kelder Make Wasps' Touchdowns for Fifth Straight Victory Sunday.

The Hudson A. C. claimants of the mythical football championship of the Hudson valley, went down to defeat Sunday afternoon at the Kingston Fair Grounds before the Reis Brothers Yellow Jackets who preserved their honor of not letting any club cross their goal line this season.

It was Hudson's aim not alone to win but to smear the record of the Wasps who are unscored upon in five straight games now. Prior to shutting out Hudson 12-0, the Reims swamped the Newburgh Recreation 6-0, Jamaica Cardinals 12-0, Water-vist Gridders, 20-0 and the Albany Lucky Strikes 27-0.

Yesterday's victory was brought about by two touchdowns, one by Bill Mosby, Kingston's right end, in the first quarter and the other by Gil Kelder, right halfback, in the fourth quarter.

Mosby crossed the goal with a short pass thrown by Cullum and Kelder, the "Wild Horse of Rosendale" galloped 30 yards with the ball he brought down on an intercepted pass. The Yellow Jackets failed on their two attempts to gain the extra point, one a pass that was knocked down and the other a wide drop kick.

Kingston outplayed Hudson in every department of football, making nine first downs to four for their opponents.

Mosby Scores
Tony Debrosky kicked off to Hudson's 10 yard line. After two attempts without a gain, Hudson punted to Eddie Minasian on Kingston's 40 and he returned it to Hudson's 49. Bill Thomas went around end for a first down on the 32 yarder. Cullum ripped off two yards and Minasian four. Al Flanagan made it a first down on the 20. Jimmie Cullum ripped off another first down on the 10 and Flanagan and Minasian collaborated for four and Cullum passed to Mosby for Kingston's first touchdown.

Cullum's pass to Debrosky for the after touchdown point was grounded, leaving Kingston's score 6-0.

Debrosky kicked to Kaznowski on the 20 and he ran it back to the 32. On the next play Kaznowski cut through the line for a 38 yard run. Minasian downed him on the Yellow Jackets' 40 marker Van Deusen went around end for another first down, making about 17 yards, but was tackled hard by Moose Tiano on the 23 yard line. "Wolf" was sent in for Van Deusen, who was injured on the play.

Hudson lost the ball on Kingston's 20 yard line on downs. Minasian made 5 yards and then the Yellow Jackets punted leaving the ball on Hudson's 39 yard line for the end of the first quarter.

Cullum's 3 First Downs
The second quarter was only a few minutes old when Kaznowski ripped off a first down for Hudson, planting the ball on the 46 yard line. Hudson tried a line play and a pass without success, then punted to Minasian on the 20 yard line. He returned it to his own 45. Bill Van Deusen gained five yards and then Cullum took the ball for three first downs in a row. Kingston lost possession of the ball on an intercepted pass by Kaznowski.

Unable to make any sizeable gains, Hudson punted out of bounds on Kingston's 40 yard line. Minasian carried the ball two yards and Thomas punted to Hudson's 20 yarder where Charlie Rabie tackled Kaznowski. Wolf went around end for 20 yards, one of the best runs of the day, and was tackled by Eddie Burgevin on the visitors' 40. After a couple of no gain plays Hudson fumbled and Don Beany recovered for the Wasps on the Hudson 47 yard line. Cullum completed a 30 yard pass to Gaddis but the officials said Gaddis was outside of bounds when he snared the ball on the 10 yard line, and the second quarter ended.

Kingston Almost Scores
Kingston's 4-0 score remained the same through the third quarter, this season being uneventful with the exception of three first downs made by the Yellow Jackets, two by Kelder and one by Mosby. Mosby's first down was registered in spectacular fashion. Cullum threw a pass on the 30 yard line and the Yellow Jacket caught it on the four yarder. Kingston tried another for a touchdown, but Brosky intercepted gaining the ball for Hudson.

Hudson tried its luck in the air and was successful when Brosky, standing on his own seven yard line threw a pass to Van Deusen who got as far as Kingston's 48-yard line where he was tackled by Minasian. The Columbia county gridders lost the ball on downs. Kelder made about eight yards for Kingston and the quarter ended.

GI Holders Score
Cullum punted 50 yards to open the fourth quarter, the ball rolling over Hudson's goal. It was brought out to the 20 and Hudson tried a pass, which was incomplete. On the second attempt to pass, Brosky's team was intercepted by Gil Kelder, who ran 30 yards, evading several threatening tacklers, and crossed the 30 yard line for Kingston's second touchdown.

Cullum's dropkick for the extra point went wide of the goal posts leaving Kingston's score 12-0.

Highlights for the remainder of the last quarter were a first down by Wolf for Hudson on his own 27 yard line and Kelder's pass to Minasian from the center of the field to the corner's 24 yard line, the drive being good for 24 yards. With the game ended with Kingston threatening the Columbians' goal.

Highlights
Bill Mosby, Kingston's right end, played a nice game. He made the Yellow Jackets' first touchdown in the opening quarter and then went on to add to his glory by dropping Hudson players with neat tackles.

Tiber Tomshaw, diminutive left guard for the Yellow Jackets, busted through the line once carrying two of the burly Hudsonians on his shoulders. Then he "beefed" to the referee because they didn't get out of the way. Evidently thinking Tiber took care of himself creditably, the official let it pass.

Johnny Shetky, Hudson's right guard, suffered a concussion of the brain in the second quarter and was removed to the Kingston Hospital. Shetky was injured in a pile-up between the Kingston and Hudson line. He was only one of about 10 visiting players who were knocked out when they were hit by the Jackets' forward wall.

The Yellow Jackets went through the game without an injury, showing that they are in condition.

Don Beany, who was out of action last week because of injury, was back for part of yesterday's game. Besides doing a good job at his regular position, center, and recovering a fumble for Kingston, the big Coast Artilleryman from West Point went in to the backfield once to toss a 40 yard pass, the longest of the day.

The loss was aimed for Mosby, but went through the air with such force that it bounced off Bill's chest and was incomplete.

Eddie Minasian in returning a punt 15 yards in the fourth quarter was tackled so hard by Wolf in mid-field that he bounced like a rubber ball. After the dust settled Eddie sat there smiling, but Wolf was out for the count. Just too bad for the "big bad" Wolf.

When the game started the weather was ideal for the nation's summer sport—baseball. By the time the first half ended spectators began to go to their cars for overcoats.

Maroon Loses To Middletown 2-0 On Safety Near End Of Game

The jinx that seems to be hovering over the Kingston High School varsity football team again sank its fangs into a vital spot Saturday when the Maroon lost its first DUSO game to a highly favored Middletown eleven, 2-0. The score came in the last two minutes of play when Tiano, groggy from two crashing tackles, let a high pass from center slip through his fingers as he stood in the end zone to punt. The ball went back out of the end zone where two Middletown players fell on it.

The Middies gained slightly more ground by their running attack than did the Klasmens, but in the aerial phase the Klasmens out gained the Middies 38 yards to 6. The Maroon team accomplished a remarkable feat in completing eight out of nine passes, with Tiano on the throwing end, Hopper, Maines and Nyulassy doing the receiving.

First Quarter
Middletown kicked off to Tiano who was dropped almost in his tracks on the 12 yard line. Tiano circled and for nine yards and Hopper made three to give a first down. Tiano kicked on the third down and the ball bounced backward, being downed on the Maroon 45 yard stripe.

Three plays gained 7 yards for the Middies. Kingston was penalized 15 yards for piling on. This put the leather on the 23 yard line. Constanto picked up 6 yards through the line, but Cummings, on a reverse, lost 4. A pass was incomplete. The Middies passed and again the alert Maroon secondary smothered the ball. Tiano made 5 yards off tackle. Maines tore through a hole in the left side of the line and made 14 yards. Tiano made three yards and then a second 15 yard penalty set them back on the 29 yard line.

Tiano's punt went out of bounds on the Middle 41 yard stripe. Cummings lost 1 yard on a reverse. Dodd made 5 through the line and Critteli, taking a lateral from Dodd, gained 3 more. Middletown punted and Tiano fumbled. Middletown recovered on the Maroon 11 yard line. Dodd was stopped on the 1 yard line.

On the next play a bad pass from center lost 15 yards and gave Kingston one of the few breaks it received in the game. The Maroon team held on the 4 yard line and gained possession of the ball. Middletown was off sides on the first play and then Sharples broke through to drop Tiano for a three yard loss.

Second Quarter
Tiano kicked to Critteli at mid-field and made his own tackle, which was felt by the spectators in the stands. Middletown called time out. Two plays gained only 3 yards and a pass was knocked down. Dayton kicked out of bounds on the 23 yard line. Tiano kicked out of bounds on the Middletown 42 yard line. Two plays later, Critteli passed to Dayton behind the line, but the pass was not thrown from a point at least five yards behind the scrimmage line, so a five yard penalty was imposed.

Critteli fumbled and Maines recovered on the Kingston 45. Tiano and Maines each made 3, then Maines was held to 2. Tiano circled end for 5. Hopper made 3 through the center of the line. Maines went off tackle to gain 3. Tiano and Maines made 2 apiece. Tiano's pass to play, Dodd went around right end and ran 26 yards to the 49-yard line. Cummings lost 1 yard and Dodd made 19. Constanto hit the line for 4 yards. Middletown fumbled and recovered for a 10 yard loss. Dayton kicked and Tiano picked up the ball which was going over the goal and attempted to run it back. On the next play in the end zone, Tiano was ready to punt as the ball slipped through his fingers and was recovered by the Middies for 2 points. Kingston kicked off from her own 20-yard line and the game ended.

The game was an exhibition of good, hard, clean football from start to finish. The Maroon team played well above all expectations. The Middies, forced to play without the services of their backfield ace, Nick Testa, played fine football throughout the game.

The Maroon has a rest this week and a week from Saturday travels to Port Jervis for its second DUSO encounter. The Port team lost to Newburgh Saturday, 13-7 in a closely contested battle.

SYRACUSE PREPARES FOR TOUGHEST GAME OF SEASON.

Syracuse, N. Y., Oct. 28 (AP)—Work and more work was the order of the day today as Vic Hanson prepared his Syracuse University grid-ders for a tough Penn State game on Saturday.

Hanson put all players who did not see service against Brown Saturday through a hard scrimmage, while the veterans of the battle with the Bruins were let off lightly. Syracuse trounced Brown 19-0.

Scouts told the Orange men that Saturday's game will be the toughest of the season so far.

Records of College Teams Whose Records Are Still Unblemished

New York, Oct. 28 (AP)—Despite the numerous upsets of October football, an imposing list of major and minor college teams displayed spotless records today.

The first Associated Press roundup of the season disclosed 35 undefeated and untied teams—about half of them drawn from the ranks of "major" colleges—and even a few that had not been scored on.

The southwest conference assumed the leading place with three of the six top-ranking teams that had scored six victories without a loss. Southern Methodist, Texas Christian and Baylor shared this honor with Temple of the East, California of the Pacific coast, and Superior, Wis., Teachers, representing the Midwest.

Dartmouth Indians, with five victories, were the highest scorers of the group with a total of 290 points against 13 for their opponents. Cincinnati University, Louisiana Tech and Albright of Reading, Pa., had the only unscuffed goal lines.

TWO CORNELL PLAYERS OUT AS RESULT OF INJURY

Ithaca, N. Y., Oct. 28 (AP)—Coach Gil Doble, counting noses closed by the raging Princeton Tiger, found today that he has two major casualties to consider.

Bill Berger, 194-pound senior, who has been doing a capable job as left guard, will be missing next Saturday when the Cornell varsity faces Columbia. He suffered a dislocated shoulder as Princeton routed the Big Red 54-0 Saturday.

Cotton-top Carl Nelson, understudy for Jeff Stofer, who played a good game in the second half Saturday, aggravated a toe injury suffered in the Syracuse game and Doble is afraid it will prove more serious than a sprain.

COLGATE GAINS GROUND BUT ISN'T ABLE TO SCORE

Hamilton, N. Y., Oct. 28 (AP)—Colgate's Red Raiders began today the job of polishing up an offense that gains plenty of yards, but doesn't produce scores.

The Colgate team, smarting under a 3-0 defeat by Holy Cross at Worcester, Mass., Saturday, was unconvinced today that Holy Cross was the better team.

The loss of George "Quo" Vadas for the rest of the season puts Albin Burke in the number one quarterback position. Vadas was injured while making a tackle Saturday.

The Championship Situation Among Leading Football Teams

By HERBERT W. BARKER (Associated Press Staff Writer)

New York, Oct. 28 (AP)—Focus your attention this week on Columbus, O., and Los Angeles or you may miss the crowning of a national football champion.

At Columbus it will be Ohio State's Buckeyes against the Ramblers of Notre Dame. At Los Angeles, the University of California will collide with its one-time football "step-child"—the University of California at Los Angeles. Now a gridiron power in its own right.

Close to 200,000 fans will watch these two duels between undefeated and untied teams, all top-ranking contenders for the mythical national title.

Notre Dame has five successive victories, the last a 14-0 triumph. Andy Pilney's passing earned against Navy last week. Ohio State, touted all season as perhaps the greatest team in the land, won its fourth in a row against Indiana, 21-6.

The far west's classic matches two formidable arrays whose combined records show ten victories with St. Mary's, Santa Clara and Stanford among the victims. Truncating Southern California 21-7 last week, California's Golden Bears stretched their winning streak to six while U. C. L. A. was making No. 4 a 22-6 victory over Oregon.

Conceivably all four of these power-house eleven may fall before the season ends, allowing Minnesota, Iowa, North Carolina, Southern Methodist, Texas Christian, Army, Princeton or Temple to share the big prize.

Meanwhile here's the championship situation in the major divisions.

East
Navy's one-night with Army, Princeton, Dartmouth, Temple, New York University, Syracuse and Catholic the only major undefeated and untied teams. Holy Cross on its brilliant 3-0 conquest of Colgate, must be counted in on the sectional scene. So must Fordham, Pitt and Villanova, beaten only by intercollegiate foes.

Pitt and Fordham will strive to rebound one another at the Polo Grounds here on Saturday, while Dartmouth, 14-4 victor over Villanova, seeks to end the Yale-New

South
Southern Conference: North Carolina, only major team south of 36 Mason and Dixon line which has escaped defeat, will try for its second conference victory at the expense of North Carolina State. The two are tied for second place in the standing now, each with one victory and no defeats.

West
Big Ten: Ohio State, Michigan, Purdue, Iowa and Minnesota all are unbeaten within the conference. Iowa's Hawkeyes, led by Dick Crayne and Ose Simmons, checked Illinois last week, 19-0, and will face Indiana next. Purdue, shocked by Carnegie Tech 7-0, in last week's principal upset, will try to come back at the expense of Minnesota's Gophers. Purdue is expected to score over Northwestern 21-12.

Northwestern and Illinois square off in the only other conference game. Michigan's Wolverines face their second eastern foe in two weeks, entertaining powerful Pennsylvania at Ann Arbor. The Wolverine halted Columbia at New York last Saturday, 19-7.

Southwest
Baylor, the current conference leader with two victories each, clash at Waco. Southern Methodist, only other unbeaten south, takes on Texas, whose long drive was halted by Rice 23-13, last week. Arkansas and Texas A. & M. will play at Fayetteville.

The Promise And The Act

An Open Letter to the Democratic Central Committee:

The slogan of your candidate for Mayor is "Representation for All." In the light of this solicitude for "All," the people of the Fourth Ward are wondering why such representation has been denied them during the past two years in the Board of Supervisors. Why was our Supervisor, who is as able as any man in public life, denied the opportunity to serve on any committee? What made the appointing officers ignore our representative? Are we in the Fourth Ward not included in your magnanimity? Do you by force of habit measure with two weights? We in the Fourth Ward insist on electing the most able representatives. Should not their capabilities be utilized to the best interest of our community? Why have you denied us the chance of benefiting from the results of his potential labors?

We challenge you to state publicly your reason for denying equal representation to the voters in the Fourth Ward.

FOURTH WARD BETTER GOVERNMENT COMMITTEE

Defending Monticello

October 25, 1935

Editor of the Kingston Freeman,

Dear Sir:

In your issue of October 21, you published, under the caption, "Monticello's Large School Tax Increase," certain statements calculated to throw discredit upon the school management of Monticello, and upon the state-wide movement towards building improved schools.

May I as one interested in school problems, and an active worker for up to date educational system in Woodstock, present the complete story of Monticello's new high school?

Owing to circumstances that govern like cases in other school districts, many needed repairs and additions to the high school building erected in 1914 were so long delayed that structural weakness and overcrowded conditions became finally so dangerous to the health and life of the pupils and faculty that the state condemned the building.

This action of the state forced upon the local Board of Education the problem of immediately raising funds sufficient to build a high school large enough to accommodate 950 registered pupils and provide for possible future expansion—a task difficult enough in normal times, but doubly so during a depression.

However, the people of Monticello had courage and intelligence, and after plans were drawn and costs estimated, a proposition to raise $250,000 by a bond issue was submitted to the people and carried by a vote of over two-thirds of those voting. A federal grant of $130,000 was later received to complete the building fund.

The above bond issue was voted for by the people, mark you, in full understanding that it would add an item of $10,000 and interest to their school budget; and they further understood that to make the old building suitable for housing the first six elementary grades, as planned, extraordinary repairs to the amount of $10,000 would have to be made, and pending completion of the new building, $4,100 would have to be spent for the rental of additional school rooms.

These items explain the rise from a budget of $109,900 in 1934 to $125,000 in 1935. $15,000 of this increase goes to correct a condition which will not occur after this year.

In the light of these facts, the tax rate at Monticello this year (which, by the way, is a tax rate lower than for the years from 1920 to 1930) is not due to wild extravagance, or to a pitfall baited by government aid, but is due to the cumulative false economy, common in our own local districts, of putting off indefinitely, for the sake of a momentary low tax rate, what we ought to do at the present time.

To those who would point to Monticello's tax rate of $58.04 on a thousand as a terrible warning of what happens when the advocates of improved schools gain control, let me reiterate what I on other occasions have tried to make clear; that tax rates without all the factors upon which they are based, are worthless as a measure of what the tax rate in another locality might be.

The assessed valuation in Monticello is $886,157. This is 12 percent of the real value. If Monticello's rate were equal to the 32 percent equalization rate of Kingston, they would be able to raise this year's school money on a tax rate of between 9 and 10 dollars per thousand. A member of the Monticello Board of Education informs me that on his residence which cost him in actual cash $12,000 he pays this year $25 school tax. A property in District No. 2, Woodstock, assessed at $14,050 pays $129 school tax.

You are doing a public service in keeping this question open to discussion, and I shall be very glad to answer, to the best of my ability, any inquiries which your readers may make on this subject.

Yours very truly,

BRUNO LOUIS ZIMM

Brooklyn Workmen Picketing New Plant Here of Knitwear Co.

Two workmen from the former plant in Brooklyn are picketing the new plant of the Knitwear Manufacturing Co., which is opening up the former Columbia Shirt Factory building on O'Neil street.

The men were walking up and down in front of the plant this morning, carrying "sandwich" signs which bore the following inscriptions:

"Workers locked out. Firm refuses American living standard to their workers. American Federation of Labor."

"Joint Council. Knit Goods Workers Union of New York state."

"Our boss didn't come here for the good of the town."

"Help us win. Don't take our jobs."

An officer from the Kingston police department is keeping his eye on the proceedings and while prospective workers in the plant and others are permitted to read the signs they are not allowed to stop and talk with the sandwich men.

50 Applicants For Work.

Machinists were busy this morning setting up machinery in the plant, which is expected to start up work in about ten days. Officers of the company were also interviewing those seeking employment and they stated that about fifty applicants appeared this morning.

The Knitwear Manufacturing Co. has been running a factory in Brooklyn for some 17 years, employing about 60 men and women. They manufacture dresses, suits and sweaters. The Brooklyn plant closed about four weeks ago as the result of labor trouble.

William G. Schaffer of Brooklyn, a representative of the union, when interviewed by a Freeman reporter this morning, said that wages paid in Brooklyn were: Knitters, $45 a week; operators, $40; finishers, $22; floor girls, $15. He said that the lock-out in the Brooklyn plant followed a refusal of the company to pay the floor girls $2 a week more. There had been no strike, he said.

Heiselein Praises Boy Scout Activities

Mayor C. J. Heiselein in a recent letter to R. F. Overbagh, president of the Ulster-Greene Council, Boy Scouts of America, said: "Scouting has been, and with the financial and moral support of the citizens of Greene and Ulster counties, will continue to be, a substantial influence for good among the boys of the various communities."

"It is in the teen years that much of the character of the men of tomorrow is moulded, and to the Boy Scouts is given a great share of the responsibility for improving the spare time of our boys. Fortunately, trained men of excellent character, under the supervision of Boy Scout executives, are making the boys to develop the desirable traits of manhood through the well rounded out program of Scouting."

"During these difficult financial times it is essential that there be no decrease in the splendid work of the Boy Scouts because funds are not available to carry on. Under the stress of unemployment the morale of many homes is weakened, and such a condition must be offset by bringing the youth of these families into supervised association with other young Americans and by teaching them the high ideals of good citizenship and clean living."

Dutch Schultz Buried At Hawthorne Today

Hawthorne, N. Y., Oct. 28 (AP)—With few mourners at the bier Arthur Plegenheimer, Dutch Schultz of the rackets, was buried today in Gate of Heaven cemetery here.

Plans for the funeral were kept secret and outsiders were barred from the cemetery as the body of the slain gang king was brought here from a 10th avenue, New York, undertaking parlor.

In striking contrast to the elaborate funerals of other overlords of the underworld was the small cortege which followed the body.

The undertaker refused to say who had made arrangements for the funeral and cemetery officials would not disclose who had contracted for the plot.

The ceremonies were brief. After a burial service was read, Plegenheimer's body was lowered into a grave undisturbed from others near it.

Within a half hour after they arrived the few persons who accompanied the body withdrew.

Second and third prizes were divided among Billie Cragan, petite blonde dancer and violinist and two rhythm dancers, Jack and Eddie. Miss Cragan played and danced at the same time, winning the acclaim of the audience, and the two young dancers went over big with their imitation of a train.

Every Saturday is an amateur night at Reader's and those desiring to compete for the cash prizes should leave their names at the box office.
